Dear Sir,

I noticed your name in the Membership Directory of the Golf Collectors Society and as I am keenly interested in antique clubs, balls etc from Holland thought perhaps that we may be able to participate in some transaction to our mutual benefit. (either by trading or purchasing from you).

Yours sincerely
Eric Cummings

Dear Mr. Cummings,

This is to thank you for your letter of the 2nd. Your question is easier put than answered. I possess one entire 1589 (wooden) golfball and to the best of my knowledge that is the only one in all of Holland! Clubs are equally scarce but may occasionally be found. I am on the trace of a late 18th century brass one right now. I have never sold anything yet and I am not frightfully good at trading. I have been looking for an early 19th century play club myself Hugh Philip or Allan Robertson or that period but I have given up. The Americans and Japanese seem to have bought them all! If you have any trading or selling material from the early 19th century or before, let me know. Not later because that is where my collection interest auto! In the meantime I shall continue my search for the hass club.

With kind regards

Sincerely yours

Steven van Hengel.
