THE FIRST TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE WORLD AMATEUR GOLF COUNCIL

The big clock on the facade of the Royal and Ancient Golf Clubhouse showed it to be some minutes before 8 o'clock.

The normal stillness of the early autumn morning at St. Andrews was suddenly rent by a skirl of bagpipes. A piper in kilts began a brief, proud parade up and down Granny Clark's Wynd, a path which crosses the first and the last holes of the Old Course.

The bagpiper's notes heralded the raising of the national flags of 29 countries on tall poles flanking both sides of the course.

Even for St. Andrews, long accustomed to the best and even the unusual in golf, this was a notable day. This Wednesday, October 8, 1958, marked the opening of the first World Amateur Team Championship of the World Amateur Golf Council.

This day and several immediately preceding and following were notable for a number of things: for fun and fellowship and good sportsmanship among golfers from around the world, most of whom were meeting for the first time; for a thrilling competition that ended in a tie and required a play-off, which itself was not settled until the home hole.

The dreamers who first envisioned the event less than a year before had expected about 15 countries to participate in the first Championship. Double that number filed entry, and one had to scratch. The 29 countries were represented by 115 players, besides officials.

Such is the magic of the Mecca of golf. The world of amateur golf, both players and officials, came to pay homage to St. Andrews, and they were richly rewarded. One can never know the extent of the impulses for good which went out from St. Andrews that week.

The Royal and Ancient Club and the City of St. Andrews joined in providing a delightful time for their guests. A high point was a dinner given by the R. and A. in the venerable Town Hall, with Sir George Cunningham, former Captain of the Club, presiding.

For the wonderful events of the week, particular thanks are recorded to R. and A. officials Henry H. Turcan, Chairman of the General Committee; N. C. Selway, Chairman of the Championship Committee, and Brig. Eric Brickman, Secretary;

First Away. The distinction of playing the first stroke in the first Championship went to Guillermo Behrens, of Venezuela. His fellow-competitor at left is and to Provost Robert Leonard and Town Clerk N. C. H. Mackenzie of St. Andrews.

Australia's Rally

The most important tangible rewards went to Australia's team, composed of Robert F. Stevens as Captain, Douglas W. Bachli, Bruce W. Devlin and Peter A. Toogood. They became the first World Champions and winners of the Eisenhower Trophy.

Under an unique scoring system of counting the three best out of four scores in each round, Australia and the United States tied at 918 for the scheduled 72 holes of stroke play. Australia won the 18-hole play-off, 222 to 224, on Monday, October 13.

The American team comprised Charles R. Coe, William Hyndman, III, William J. Patton and Dr. Frank M. Taylor, Jr. Their non-playing Captain was Robert T. Jones, Jr., the incomparable "Grand Slam" Champion of 1930, who, because of his crippled condition, went about in a motorized cart, the first to be used at St. Andrews.

In third place, just one stroke out of the Championship tie, came the team representing Great Britain and Ireland, with 919. New Zealand was a close fourth, with 921, and Argentina was fifth at 940.

Australia's victory was deeply deserved. Not one of their four players scored better than 81 in the first round, when a breathtaking westerly wind averaged between 35 and 40 miles an hour. After 18 holes Australia was 17 strokes behind the leader, Great Britain and Ireland. The Australians kept plugging and reduced their deficit to nine strokes after 36 holes and four strokes after 54 holes, placing them in a position from which they struck successfully for a tie.

The play-off, under the least windy and warmest conditions of all, came down to the home hole for decision. There the difference consisted of two birdie 3s by Bruce Devlin, who holed from 18 feet, and Robert Stevens, who holed from eight. It was a glorious finish by the Australians and stamped them as true World Champions.

The Old Course was a stringent test. The chill wind moderated only slightly after the first gusty day. The greens were glazed by the wind, and addressing the ball with a putter was hazardous, especially on opening day, when one American twice sustained a penalty stroke as his ball moved after address. But the week was gloriously sunny except for two brief showers. The fairways were slow, after evening showers and a summer of excessive rain.

Fluctuation of the Lead

Throughout both the first two rounds the leader was Great Britain and Ireland, the team comprising Joseph B. Carr, R. Reid Jack, Arthur H. Perowne and Guy

Common Language. They all speak Golf: Hugo Hild, Austria; Joao Barbosa Correa, Brazil; Jeffrey Koo, China.

B. Wolstenholme, with Gerald H. Micklem as non-playing Captain. Reid Jack's remarkable 72 in the blustery first round set the pace. After one round the British total was 227, with the United States second at 233; Argentina and New Zealand tied for third at 236, with Australia much farther down the list with 244.

New Zealand spurted the next day, with left-handed Robert J. Charles scoring his second 74. After 36 holes New Zealand was one stroke behind the British, 462 to 461; the United States was now third with 465, and Australia next with 470.

The four leading teams were shuffled in the third round. New Zealand shot ahead with a 54-hole total of 687; a 72 by Edward J. MacDougall showed the way. The United States was second, three strokes off the pace. Australia produced the best three-man one-day score of the Championship, 221, thanks largely to Peter Toogood's 71; Australia was now only four strokes from the lead and was tied at 691 with Great Britain-Ireland.

Nothing was settled until the last putt were grouped at the end of the day, and there was a great finish. Eventually Australia set up a leading score of 918 for the 72 holes; Devlin had a 73, Stevens a 75 with a two-stroke penalty at the 10th hole; Bachli and Toogood had 79s. Their 72-hole aggregate of 918 looked just good enough to win until the Americans rallied to tie.

In the last group of the day William Hyndman, III, of the United States, holed a great 3 at the 17th (the 453-yard Road Hole), where the British standard scratch score is 5 and American par would be 4; his approach shot with a No. 4 iron stopped six feet from the hole. Then Hyndman had a 4 at the home hole for a fine round of 72. It brought the American total to 918 and a tie with Australia.

It was an exciting climax, for at the 18th if Hyndman had been able to hole his first putt for a birdie 3 the United States would have won; and if Guy Wolstenholme, playing with him, had holed his first putt, Great Britain-Ireland would have tied Australia and the United States.

Australian Star. Bruce W. Devlin driving from the 16th. Immediately behind him is Dr. Frank M. Taylor, Jr., United States.

The Road Hole. A clear reason why it is dangerous to overplay the green of the decided the play-off. Her three best scores included brilliant last nines of 35 by Devlin, 35 by Stevens, and 36 by Toogood, culminating in the decisive birdie 3s at the 18th by Devlin and Stevens, Charles Coe's final nine of 35 for a 73 could not quite pull things out for America.

The lowest individual scores for 72 holes were 301s by Devlin of Australia, Hyndman of the United States, and Jack of Great Britain-Ireland. There were six rounds below the British standard scratch score of 73, headed by the 71 which Peter Toogood made for Australia, The 72s were scored by Devlin, Hyndman, Jack, MacDougall of New Zealand, and Gunnar Carlander of Sweden.

THE MEANING OF THE CHAMPIONSHIP

The meaning of the World Amateur Golf Team Championship was expressed as follows in the program of the 1958 Championship by John D. Ames, President of the United States Golf Association and Joint Chairman of the World Amateur Golf Council:

"For most of us who love golf, the game is an end in itself. It needs no superimposed justification. It is enough when any human activity can provide for its participants such great and simple things as sheer pleasure, the joy of companionship, healthful exercise out of doors, fair play, and the zest of friendly competition.

"There are occasions, however, when golf properly becomes a medium. At St. Andrews this week golf is serving purposes beyond itself. It is here being used as a vehicle to carry us further along the road of friendship and understanding among the peoples of the world.

"That is the true significance of this first Amateur Team Championship of the World Amateur Golf Council.

"There are many strands in the ties that bind people the world over. If the world of

HOW IT CAME ABOUT

Among games played around the globe, golf was late in evolving a world-wide team championship for amateurs and an organization to sponsor it. Perhaps because the time was fully ripe, the project was notable for the ease of its birth and its immediate health.

Even for this speedy age, the World Amateur Golf Council and its Champion-ship were created very swiftly from the time the seed was first sown. That seed was a suggestion for a team match between high-handicap players of Japan and the United States; it flowered into a champion-ship among the best teams from 29 countries.

The chronology of unfoldment was remarkable. Appropriately, the main stages occurred in three widely separated parts of the world — Asia, North America and Europe. Reduced to six brief scenes, this is how it came about:

Scene 1 – Tokyo; October, 1957: During the Canada Cup international professional event, Japanese golf-lovers asked Juan T. Trippe, New York businessman and long-time golf devotee, to inquire whether the United States Golf Association would be willing to sponsor a team of high-handicap amateurs for a match with Japan.

Scene 2 - New York; November, 1957: Mr. Trippe delivered the Japanese message to a USGA official, who saw no prospect of USGA sponsorship of a team of high handicappers. However, the USGA official suggested a competition which could bring together the best players of all interested countries and accommodate all possible interests. (The USGA had been receiving invitations for matches periodically from other countries and could not accept them. Also, the USGA had been asked to try to have golf included in the Olympics.)

Scene 3 - Chicago; January 23, 1958: The USGA Executive Committee approved in principle a plan for a World Amateur Team Championship, and decided to seek the cooperation of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland.

Scene 4-St. Andrews; March 6-8, 1958: USGA representatives John D. Ames, President, and Joseph C. Dey, Jr., Executive Director, made a confidential flying mission to St. Andrews, presented the plan to the R. and A.'s General Committee, and proposed St. Andrews as the scene of the first Championship later in the year. The R. and A. cooperated to the full, led by Henry H. Turcan, Chairman of the General Committee; N. C. Selway, Chairman of the Championship Committee, and Brig. Eric Brickman, Secretary.

Scene 5 - Washington; May 2-3, 1958: After invitations from the USGA-R, and A. Interim Committee had gone to every country in the world, 39 gentlemen representing national amateur golf associations in 35 countries met in Washington; airplane transportation was provided by American friends of golf. They created the World Amateur Golf Council, with 32 original Member Organizations, and planned the first Championship. President Eisenhower received the delegates in the Rose Garden of the White House on May 2, and consented to a request that the Championship prize be known as the Eisenhower Trophy; it was given anonymously by present and former USGA officials.

Scene 6 - St. Andrews; October 8-11 and 13, 1958: The first Championship was held, with teams from 29 countries. Australia was the Champion after an 18-hole playoff of a tie with the United States.

From the outset the enterprise was blessed with harmony. In the Planning Conference in Washington, had each of the 39 gentlemen around the big table spoken in his native tongue, there would have been a confused Babel of some 15 languages. But they all spoke Golf, incidentally using English as a common medium, and they all were animated by the

The form of the Championship was a major topic. Almost all delegates favored match play, but none could devise a feasible plan to accommodate some 30 teams in less than a week of play. The final plan provides for 72 holes of stroke play, one round a day. Each team consists of three or four players. The team score is the total of the three best individual scores in each round. This gives all four players on a team ample opportunity to "make the team."

The object of the Council is "to foster friendship and sportsmanship among the peoples of the world." President Eisenhower had ideas on this subject and, in receiving the delegates to the Planning Conference, said: "I suggest, aside from the four hotshot golfers you bring, that you take along some high-handicap fellows and let them play at their full handicaps. . . . This way golf doesn't become so important. After a match the scratch fellow remembers one thing . . . and tells all his friends for the rest of his life that he could have won that international match if he hadn't hit the ball into the water on the 16th. But the high handicappers know darn well friends about their golf, so they will talk more about St. Andrews, and about the wonderful Scotch people, and everybody they met there."

This prompted Gabriel Tudela, President of the National Golf Commission of Peru, to propose a "Delegates and Duffers Cup" event for officials and non-playing captains. The plan was adopted, and when Seymour Marvin, Brazil's non-playing Captain, accepted the Delegates and Duffers Cup as first winner at St. Andrews, he said: "We came not with the expectation of winning (the Championship) but rather to contribute what we could to the occasion merely by being present."

ST. ANDREWS HONORS BOB JONES

t had been 22 years since Robert T. Jones, Jr., had visited St. Andrews, but the Scots' admiration and affection for him were still warm and deep when he returned as non-playing Captain of the United States team in the first World Amateur Championship.

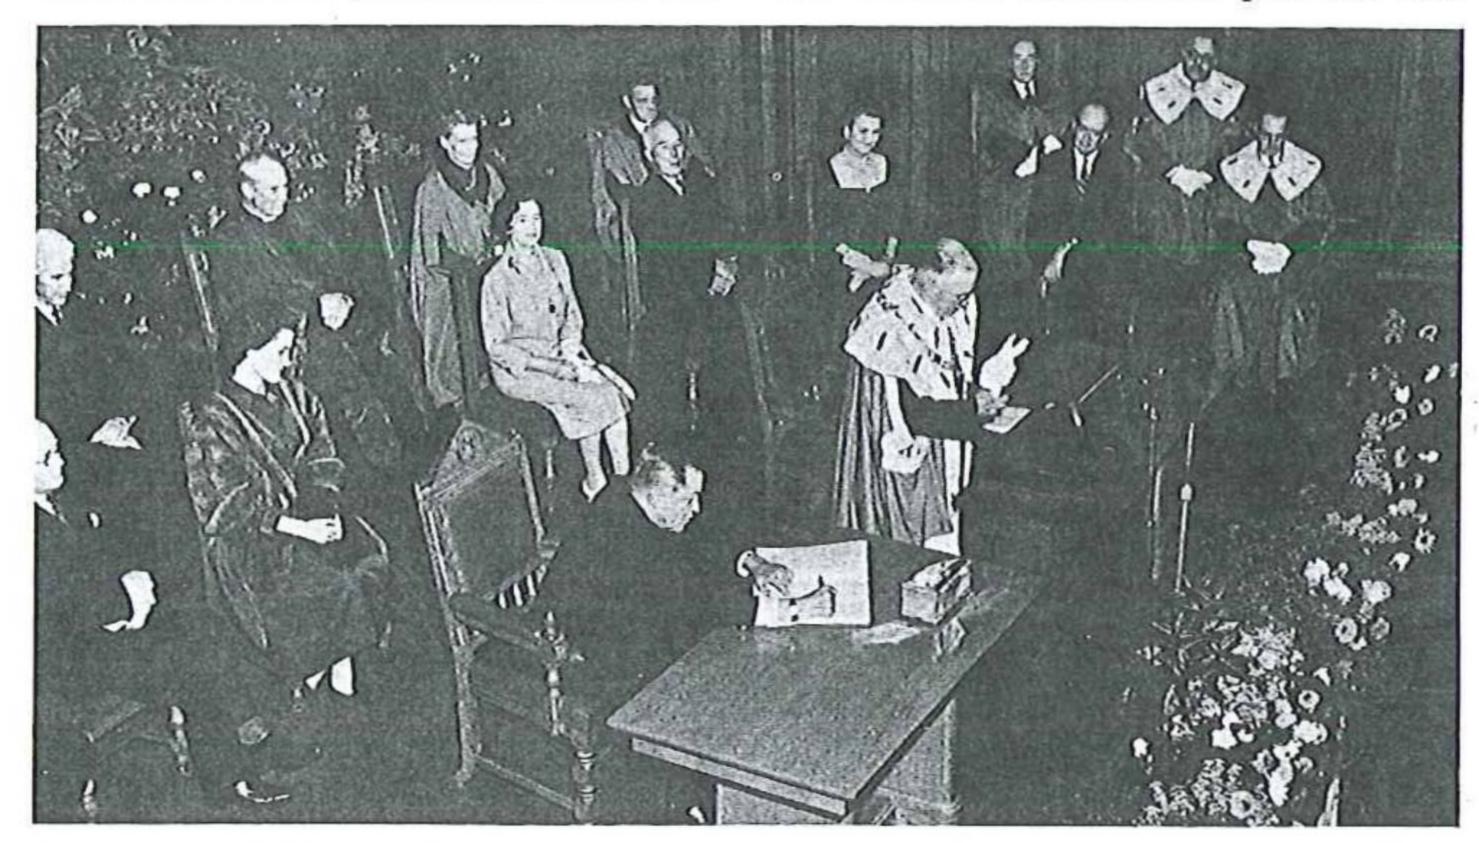

He was paid a singular honor when the Town Council of St. Andrews presented him with the freedom of the city and made him an Honorary Burgess on October 9, 1958. The Freedom Ceremony was held in Younger Graduation Hall of St. Andrews University, with players in the World Championship present.

The Provost of St. Andrews, Robert Leonard, said:

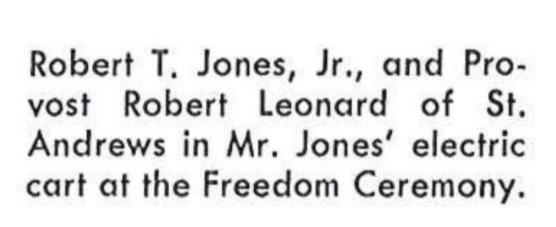

"We are met here this evening to confer the freedom of the City and Royal Burgh of St. Andrews on Mr. Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, Georgia. Among its many other claims to renown, St. Andrews has long been recognized as the metropolis of the golfing world, and its selection for the first international competition for the Eisenhower Trophy at the generous request of its American originators is further confirmation of this fact. Mr. Jones is recognized as the most distinguished golfer of this age - one might well say of all time. Thus, it is appropriate that just such a place and just such a personality should be linked together at just such a time as

"But the conferring of the freedom of a city, although it may have a certain formal symbolism of this kind, can never be a merely formal matter - and it can rarely have been less so than on this occasion. As representative of the community of St. Andrews, we wish to honor Mr. Jones because we feel drawn to him by ties of affection and personal regard of a particularly cordial nature, and because we know that he himself has declared his own enduring affection for this place and for its people.

"Like many cordial and enduring partnerships, it was not, I think, a case of love at first sight. Probably few St. Andreans paid much attention to the visit of a relatively unknown young American golfer for the British Open Championship of 1921, and I believe that for his part the first impression that Mr. Jones formed of the Old Course was something less than favorable. And there - with any other person and any other place - the matter might well have rested. But back he came in 1927 to master the intricacies of golf at St. Andrews as they had never been mastered before, even by our own giants of the nineteenth century, and to win his way not only to the Open Championship, but to the hearts of St. Andrews' people from that day to this. . . .

Freedom of St. Andrews. Robert T. Jones, Jr., signs the Burgess Roll as the newest Honorary Burgess. Provost Robert Leonard of St. Andrews is standing near him. At left is Mr. Jones' daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Jones; center rear in dark suit, Sir George Cunningham, former Captain of the R. and A.; Mrs. Jones is in front of door near center;

"We welcome him for his own sake; we welcome him also as an ambassador in the cause of international understanding and good will which the competition of this week is designed to promote. We welcome him, moreover, not only as a distinguished golfer, but as a man of outstanding character, courage, and accomplishment, well worthy to adorn the roll of our honorary burgesses. And that an American should once again be entered in that roll may well be thought timely, for it is just one year short of two hundred years ago, in October 1759, that our predecessors welcomed Dr. Benjamin Franklin privileges of a burgess and guild brother of the City of St. Andrews.

"What these privileges now are, in any tangible sense, even the Town Clerk hesitates to suggest - though Mr. Jones may be interested to know that any that are ever mentioned relate specifically to the Links – to catch rabbits, to take divots, and to dry one's washing upon the first and last fairways of the Old Course.

"These are homely terms - and perhaps in an American as well as a British sense - but they may help us to convey to our new honorary burgess just what we mean by this freedom ceremony - that he is free to feel at home in St. Andrews as truly as in his own first home town of Atlanta, one of our own number officially now as he has been so long unofficially."

At the end of the ceremony Mr. Jones and Provost Leonard descended from the platform and seated themselves in Mr. Jones' electric golf cart, which slowly rolled up the aisle amid thunderous cheers, tearfilled eyes and the refrain of a song to which the Scots were spontaneously
