

through the green

.....IS THE OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE BRITISH GOLF COLLECTORS SOCIETY AND IS PUBLISHED QUARTERLY IN MARCH, JUNE, SEPTEMBER AND DECEMBER. HAVING DISCOVERED THAT MOST COMPUTER PEOPLE ARE EITHER CHABLE OR UNWILLING TO SPEAK IN COMPREHENSIBLE ENGLISH, YOUR EDITOR HAS THUS FAR RESISTED THE TECHNOBABBLE FROM THE HIGH PRIESTS OF THE COMPUTER WORLD AND CONTINUES, FOR THE TIME BEING, TO PRODUCE THESE PAGES BY THE TIME HONOGRED METHOD OF LICK, STICK AND TIPP-EX!

THROUGH THESE PAGES WE CONTINUE TO AIM AT ENTERTAINING, ENCOURAGING AND INCREASING THE GOLF COLLECTORS KNOWLEDGE AND UNDERSTANDING OF THE RICH AND COLOURFUL HISTORY OF THE MOST GLORIOUS OF ALL GAMES.

WE ENCOURAGE OUR MEMBERS TO DEVELOP FRIENDSHIPS WITH FELLOW ADDICTS AND CONTINUE TO ACCEPT COMMENTS.CRITICISMS.NEW IDEAS AND ALL MEMBERS CONTRIBUTIONS FOR PUBLICATION WITHIN THE PAGES OF THIS JOURNAL.

ISSUE NUMBER FOUR-MARCH 1985

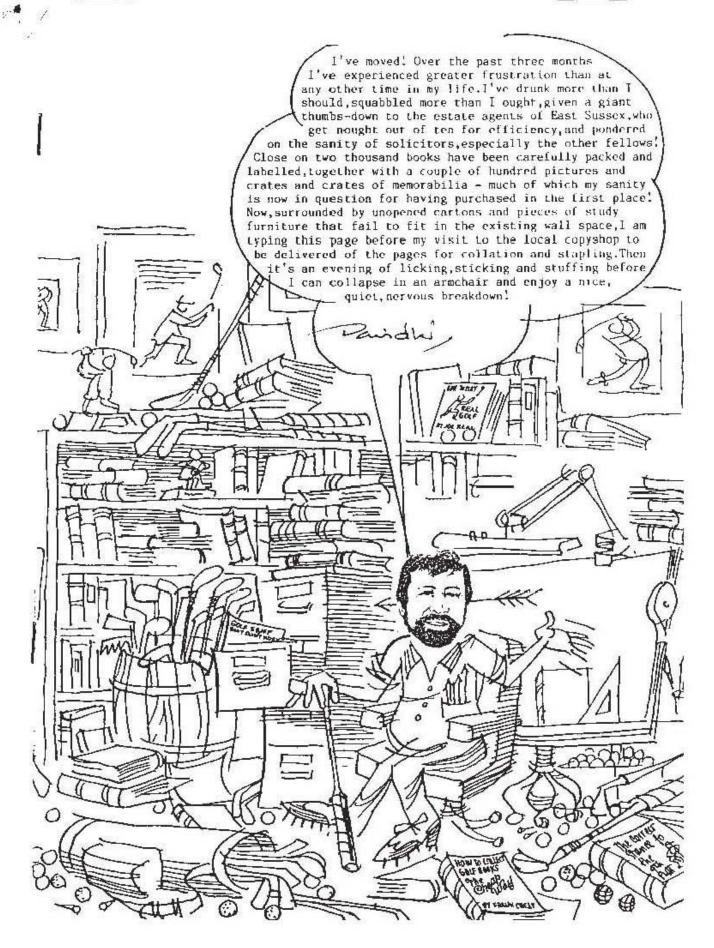

EDITOR: DAVID WH!TE
SECRETARY: DAVID EARBY
TREASURER: TONY HAWKINS
CAPTAIN: RAYMOND GOSSAGE
SCOTTISH REP: ARCHIE BAIRD
ADOPTED AMERICAN: JOE MURDOUN
COMMITTEE: PETER CRABTREE,
RAYMOND GOSSAGE, TONY HAWKINS.
TIM SMARTT, PHILIP TRUETT.
DAVID EASBY. DAVID WHITE and

BNZS ZHC

BAITISH GOLF COLLECTORS SOCIETY

P.O. BCX 843 SEAFOAD EAS' SUSSEX

First Tee March 1988

Portrait of a Collector

The well-laws wash't born richt but it even now was high lucky it is a. The second of gill productive or was weahed on the same and was to become two sits ofth unbassator and lumber one addict. But, a wrish an in 1922 case also a representative above the designs have because they are fathers functores and case, chapter the designs have father most have above in this keep as withing the mighten who cook to the game with such ease and definishmated ustant woundaries and took to the game with such ease and definished will far in true as on his tender years. At 14 he was we have way, plainted as assistant at Conway Golf Chub. An early exposure to "bigners" golf, in the stape of the "MY Ryder Cup held a looking requires how to he set his father were taken by hired chamifetur to a sound finder to the Southpart and Almshale Times. Left to wander line to prince the gallery that tollower Densmore Shute, the time young not be a control. Eyes paying from their sockets at anythin impressive ensembles the set of the property. ersonality he vivially remembers the larger-than-life gold tag carried of Stones' addre. This was the first time be said seen a players indice in -in a bag and there it was in limit letters: DENNY SMUTE MOSTOW G.C.This was most to some seat of God.he thought, and this has together with the color of play demonstrated made such an impression that on reterni : "Court our voint perhapsild proctice alone, playing the halls one of the sun an imaginary Denny boilt missile. In these most private ingreasy Peder Cop mothes the Shute hall would be matched against that in a many Evder Cop matches the Shute hall would be matched against that it would former, exist some very close creatis.

A summa funder age Givence was entitled to mero worship and he delighted a past being around professional golders, not just damous once but thode that ere itemified and he dream of the day when he also might become interior and save a sinh name following his own. The seem of 198 was another bonanza for 'starwatching' when the influency year old was taken to seem the England, Southerd, Ireland, Waiss laterantichal at Linududnos. Here Were the Gods' of the eraiDick Burton, Arthur Laes, Henry Cotton and Dai Rees of the flesh and Glynne was in wonderland! Watching them was all very well, but our young hero had a further interest, collecting autographs and he was add these star names to his reflection - he was in seventh heaven!

batly in the war years Glynne left Conway to become assistant at Ulandudno offer their Process called up for active service. Whilst there he played with Tim Webster, the sporting cartoconist, and recalls that Webster played with a 'mny and match' set of clubs made up of those which has been given bin by famius players - a 3 iron from being Duncan, a 3 iron from Gene conce, a 7 from from Walter Hagen etc., etc. 'I was no improved, write 1 item, that I kept those clubs them can and pulished free of charge, just and the conce of healther them. the photonic of has thing them.

A ran., collection of backs from the facily, actuling Bellams 'The Worlds Crammin Golfett,' and Taylorov Ball', forced the Washa upon which his own

Library began, Recalling the first purchase. Glynne writes I called at this carrow the shop and asked for the plak bank in the window. This three the purchase to shop and asked for the plak bank in the window. This three the proposition, but a copy of Mitchells 'Essentials of Golf' was extracated from the shouldes of the window and banded to be. Pine', said the manivement be colourblind[And, For the first time I called that I say.' At Handudan Glynne became joint record holder. With a Od, and his golf was, in his own words' not going badly.' But was sarving intervered and cur here was soon in the RANE, and posted to the Middle Past. Da Yeave to Grizo be placed with the at the district meteron and current point record holder with a 63, and his golf was, in his own words not going badly. But was strike intervened and current pero was soon in the RAAF, and posted to the Middle Fast. Da leave to Cairo be placed with the bearmany walker Cup player, Morton Lykes, and at his base camp at hort Sald became a services golf course architect, having our new hold course, or said, between, the tests! A locky find in the SAAAF, in the shape of a Spalling M' 6 from an a cocata or the record of the output of a gun our Glow was saftying a weapon of a different kind! Herman in 'A' and a rest. The Midlands absent to be and five not said to be find a gun our Glow was saftying a weapon of a different kind! Herman in 'A' and a rest. The Midlands absent to be and five not said to be find a gun out to be find a gun out to be find a direct washing stars of the period of A few moves, first to bearing the to die before to take a given in the said said to the record of the record of the record of the said to the sai As and the segment of the control that state precedent of meant and a real partner who shares in her wans addition and shows a symmetry in the test of the earth a book which she deduces be will want. Rounding off Slyrae had this to say to me the meant was a protess and golder, but first and foremost I have always been a gold addition in it as no hope that fellow addition as a made pleasure from addition as I have gained myself.

STOP PRESS!

int as filers cetting teady is sail it a day I received a nice letter trum Group Captain Alan Jacks interation, recidently on an Apple wordprocessor and looking very professional indeed . I may yet weaken out see below *) Alan is specking bein in the frentification of the following model makes to manufactures. If you can help please wrate to him.

SEFTLA ST

IMPERIAL!

'ALBON' trand)

CEFTEK

CE crimins with V a numerical site label or with a subvective call like headler is gaining quality howed with the system. The special case he plugged into an Apple 100 to see a standard Apple periform ((instruction to a new-expect lap competting a computer to an electric typewriter).

^{* -} KIPP1.10F*

An early lesson helps Colville stay the course

1AN WOOD journeys into the past with the remarkable Musselburgh Golf Historian, George Colville (93).

MAKING a telephone call to George Colville is a delightful but slightly unnerving experience. It is delightful because he's such an entertaining and cheerful character, unnerving because he's inclined to namedrop in the nicest possible way and when he drops turnes it's as well to bold on to your hat

For instance, when I phoned him the other day to thank him for some golling suppers he'd sent me, he happened to mention, in passing, his early golf training. It was at that point that I realised that I'd have to take a firm grap of myself, for George's first lessons were a half different.

For a start, the man who did the teaching was Bob Ferguson, who'd won the Open Championship of 1880, 1881 and 1882. And, as if that wasn't enough, the young Colville - he was aged around six or seven — was then advised to do something about his hands by Willie Park, winner of the first Open ever played, in 1860

Park, though very old and infirm by then, was sufficiently interested, nevertheless, to ask the lad where he had learned to hold a club like that. — "that" being Ferguson's own grip which was along Vardon limes, it was, in the circumstances, a distressing sort of query and when Colville told the old champion that Ferguson had been his mentor. Park deepened the confusion by instructing the boy to adopt forthwith his, Park's, two-handed grip, making the case for the change pretty well unanswerable by adding. "Remember, I was the first Open Champion, not Bob Ferguson."

So much for progress George Colville was $3 in August and, as his memories have been well plundered over the years, it had not been my intention to subject him to further interrogation. However, I hadn't heard the Willie Park one before and, hooked, I was drawn to the cosy domain of the Musselburgh Golf Historian who still shakes a mean club when the mood is upon him — and it almost al-

So it came to pass that I found myself sitting with the spritely George within yipping distance of the putter used by Willie Park inc. in the course of upholding family pride by winning the Opens of 1987 and 1889. Also on the wall was a rut iron created by the brothers Carrick for the purpose of playing off the road flanking the old char pionship links down toward. Levenhall where one intrepid trouper was seen playing a shot from a garden in Albert Terrace They played it where it lay then.

Another club belonged to David (Deacon) Brown, the chimney sweep who was called in to make up the numbers on the very morning of the 1886 Open. Thirty-one entries had been filed and to round things up. John Anderson, the official who was doing the organising, sent for Brown, who was reputed to be in good form. Deacon duly arrived, black with soot, changed out of his lum-hat and striped trousers and, after a quick wash, dashed off to win the championship.

One of Colville's sadder impressions of the old professionals with whom he carne in contact, was the lowly status accorded them, in spite of their prowess on the links.

It is incredible to think that Ferguson himself — a man who was denied four successive Open titles when Willie Fermie beat him in a play-off — worked as a caddic throughout his great years. Ferguson's prize-money for his three Opens totalled £22 — comprising first prizes of £7 in 1880 and 1881 and £8 in 1882, a boom year.

"Willie Park jur., together with the members of the Triumvirate, Braid, Vardon and Taylor, were the first to set the standards which gained for their profession the respect of the public," said Colville, who suffered at first-band from the unfortunate image which had been formed in the public mind. A scratch golfer himself, he was offered posts as assistant at Nice, Monte Carlo and in America His parents flatly refused to countenance his accepting any of the jobs and told him to put any ideas of a professional career in gold furnity from his mind.

George spent much time with the caddies and he recalls that life in the caddie shed was a curious mixture of hard-living himour and a Calvinistic line in morals. One man who had set up house with a lady without benefit of clergy, so to speak, was reviled by his fellows and banned from the shed in spite of his protests that she was a "no-nonsense woman." Colvilie, who was Town Registrar at the time, persuaded the man to take the plunge, performed the marriage ceremony for oothing the fee was five shillings) and the caddie shed han was lifted.

Not that this sensivity was much in evidence on the course. As a boy, Colville once watched Andra Kirkaldy attempt to extricate himself from a large, steepered bunker behind the sight on the old links. After five blows Kirkaldy was still in the sand and, as the language grew riper by the second, Colville's father turned and told George and a group of his young friends. "Clear out boys and let Andrew get on with his swearing."

George's father, Andrew, a watchmaker and jeweller, was captain of the Honestas and Merchants clube, two of the 29 Musselburgh clube which used the links. Once, playing with Bob Ferguson, Andrew asked the champion how it was that, into a wind, he was able to fly the gutty ball over the Pandy bunker at the sixth when other good players couldn't manage it. Ferguson confided that be'd "bored a hole in the bal and put in twa wee lead pellets."

The Pandy bunker, incidentally, was the setting for one of George's favourite stories of the links. It concerns one of the links. It concerns one of the Lords of Session who had plugged his ball so hopelessly in the face of the hazard that he was obliged to lurn in despair to his caddie and ask him what could be done about the situation With a simplicity close to genius, the caddie suggested his lordship relieve himself in the vicinity of the ball and claim a free drop away from casual water.

In the course of his own playing career. George made the semi-final of the Dispatch Trophy with the Edinburgh Parish Council team, won the Malloch Trophy Foursonies Cup in partnership with Col. A H Buchanan Dunlop and, after various alarums and excursions, won—as he surely had to win—the Musselburgh Amateur Championship in 1937.

It was on another occasion in that championship, in the days when it was played over the old links, that, when playing a semi-final tie, Colville and his opponent repaired to the window at Foreman's pub which stands conveniently at the end of the course and called for refreshment

As George toyed with a halfpint, a woman approached him and registered strong disapproval, not because she was opposed to the Demon Drinkbut because she'd just slapped $1 on George to win and wasn't thest pleased with all this wassaing George, as always had the words to suit the occasion but we won't record them here

Colville's life has been unbenevably full. He has, in the course of a career in local government service in Musselburgh been a veritable Pooh-Bah. He has worked on behalf of the poor, he has been involved with the mentally ill, with birth, with marriage, with death, He has read the Lives to the Fullen at Inveresk War Menorial for the last 80 years. During the First World War he served with the Royal Field Artiflery, fought at Passehendaele, was gassed at Ypres and was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal.

When he was a schoolboy he carned pennies — about one an hour, to be more precise painting gutty balls at Peter McEwan's Musselburgh factory. This he did by rolling the balls between his paint ameared palms while looking ruefully at older boys who were raking in 3d an hour for thinning backers statts with emery paper. Now in the mellow years, he writes addresses dinners and sucurities and, as befits one of the first members of the British Golf (ollectors Society, he collects resoliably.

When you're in George fol ville's company, the years fall away and the game's roots seem dramatically nearer Golfers who have become with the passage of time, revered but distant names on an illustrious cast-list, suddenly develop personalities and become revisionalities and become revisionalities and become revisionalities and seem of a proper so familiar and yet so remote, are given substance, human strengths, frailtie, and eccentricities.

For those lucky enough to join George on his journeys into the game's past, it is a unique and wonderful experience.

THIS ARTICLE FIRST APPEARED IN 'The Scotsman' on December 19th 1987, its reappearance here in 'Through The Green' is due to the generous nature of George Colville, who has given us his permission for its republication.

PHOTOGRAPH BY JACK CROMBIE

NEW ADDRESS

Please note our new and only address for all correspondence is: BRITISH GOLF COLLECTORS SOCIETY P.O.Box 843 SEAFORD East Sussex BN25 2HQ

George Colville

WHAT MAKES A GREAT GOLF COURSES

As a follow on to the fascinating feature by Peter Bown in the December edition of 'Through The Green', readers may care to learn the criteria used by American 'Golf Digest magazine in processing the 'One Hundred Greatest Golf Courses.'

SHOT VALUES - How fairly a course rewards power, linesse and accuracy.

RESISTANCE TO SCORING - Now difficult the course is for the scratch player.

DESIGN BALANCE - How well the holes vary in length and configuration.

MEMORABILITY - Now well you remember the holes after playing.

ESTHETICS - The beauty and enticement of the course.

COMDITIONING How well and consistently the course is maintained during the competitive season.

TRADITION - Impact the course has had on the history and fore of the game.

REQUEST FOR HELP OR INFORMATION

Altohor: J Macdanald is researching on bow the following imprope and have improped on the game - CLASS, RELIGION, THE LADIES, ARTISANS, PUBLIC COURSES, MANAGEMENT STRUCTURES, DIVISIONS WITHIN CLOBS, OTHER COUNTRIES AND THE POPULAR VIEWPOINT etc., etc. 11 you have any comment; or kin work any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publications (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) please write to him at any publication (golf or otherwise) and the publication (golf or otherwise) and the publication (golf or otherwise) and the golf of the publication (golf or otherwise) and the golf or otherwise (golf or otherwise) and golf or otherwise (golf or otherwise).

fillin .cc. garen .cos.

By Any Other Name....

No further debasement of our golfing language. A plea trum the heart by Alistali Macdonald.

It could be said that we are now irrevocably and irreversibly well into third generation of the nonreclature and parlance of golf.

First there was braid Scots deriving much of its vocabulary from the Gaelic and Scotdinaviz: languages at a time when English had exerted little influence on cormon usage in Lands north of the Forth Valley. As the game spread abroad, and in this context abroad was no further than England, a matural Anglicisation of golf culture and language took place. While the manes of the implements of the sport may well have so vived the expansion, as the game codified, now terms and verbal embellishments were introduced.

The native conventions of golf, once having established a linguistic identity, became more fluid as the richness and flexibility of the lengthsh tunge enhanced their limited localised glossary.

The arrival of the third generation of varibulary and expression was heralded again by Scotsmen but this time taken further affeld to the other side of the Atlantic, where the Anglo-Scottish idiom and jargon was amplified, distorted and to some people, debased.

As the invitable Americanisation proceeds, loyalty to the vernacular recodes and is eventually forgotten. At the current rate of change it is possible that the bulk of the original, and much of the besic contemporary usage and ethics will have disoppeared by the end of this Century.

This is the core of this brief study.

We should perhaps be grateful that the wave is still played round 18 bales, played off a tee to a green via a fairway bounded by rough. However, it is with no little nostalgic regret that we play with a non-British ball, or a treat sine then a back nine, occasionally scoring one over par and illustrally calling it a basey. Here often perhaps landing in a true and taking a sand wedge to extricate ourselves. When we play well we pick up a birdicion engle, or an albatross on holes bereft of the definite article and where applicable, a possessive "Ch", and which are now starkly 14 or 15 or whatever.

What other original changes and customs are about of as as we energy from the ginger-born stall background and progress to the grandour of the 'Country Club.' Will out of bourds become off limits? Will course rating take over from Standard Scratch Score? Does our willy bondix become none or less of a merger of culted a hastler. How often does one of our bane tend IV communitators have to refer to the "British Open" before the unnecessary approximate becomes established and the "other one" becomes the Open? Will our happy debuting have remain the "Tach", and what other dranges does the future have an store?

How will speciated behaviour manifest itself at the bag golding occasions? Burieks and whoops are not effected, bere to also, well established as they now are in other forms of entertainment. Will the shrill whistle of approval rise to be a general and permanent crescends? Will a common sense of sportsmasship condern the application of the other sade's had shot? If such conduct becomes part of the golfing scene, have for one was we four the sector chant?

Language and convention are living and nobile, and it is narealistic to expect a rapidly expanding sport not to acquire new languistic adormnents and fashions. None - the - less, it would appear that the other internal each sports developed and fastered in this country have retained much more of their energial terminology. Perhaps the assumption is ill-founded, but despite the widespread adoption of social terminology, the echos of the sports has remained peculiarly British.

What there has been dropped by the saysade? What have we lost? The implements of the game and their nample, descriptive means the clock, reshie, niblack, halfy, bulger, brassie, booker, spoon, and even the sacmy, the scaper and the skoogee. The divot is still with as but it is highly vulnerable (MEASE REMAIN THE TERM). Stymie sent out with the rule of 1951, and with it the six-inch score card, having behind the figured two "styriled" new giving way to "savelened", at least in the I.K. Durmie is still in general use, if nor always accurately used to express the same number of holes up as there are left to play. Its life span with such a suspent derivation ("I con't lose, so 1")) have a cap" must be limited. What's that superrely descriptive word has gone to even and there in an acceptable alternative. Not so the objquitous links burn which didn't travel at all well, and now long stace, consider of Scotland, become an indinary and common-place stream. The tire in tall its noun-torns running with us und is likely to do so. The word tee is well entrem bed as one of the fundamental corner stones of early Seattieft gelf, this despite Datch attempts to personde us that the word comes from the Old Dutch 'turit je' -(On the built ye, Yt) meaning a mound of send. Such haggling can only serve to weaken its stature and expounge the empyone of a substitute, so let's kill it, if only as a digression. Isage of the word too developed in Scotland in parallel with the sport of curling. The "tee" or "house" in 'the rearring game' is the seven foot diameter circle with the "bullseye" in the centre as the target for the curling stones. The word is derived from the Guelse "tight" (curiously enough processed tee) meaning beared but where is the lank?

CONTEMPO OF THE SEXEN TUTTUE.....

Sixth Tee ... March Pret

There is a substantial oxe. Wile I of the Leith code of 1/44 states: - you must tee your fall! within a club length of the bole'. One club's length describes a radius, the hole was the trayer, and the circle -tigh, house or tee, the area for the next draws off. Argument is superfluxes, the case is male!

One term remains underso rated, at least at the time of writing, but a bridge, as to its origin are named use. The gram is still called OVF, it might well have been graced with an entirely different name - the Gentan kolbe, a club; the Dutch proliteration of kolf je, kelven, kolf, colf and no doubt offer variations on the there. It has even been suggested, perhaps with longer in check, that the old French at nik and ball gome 'chole' could from the spidery slanted writing of some centuries ago, have been misread as golf (tev it!)

There can be little doubt bowever, that the origin of the word gol; is derived from the old Guelle word meaning 'to strake' The word was, and still is in Scotland today, pour,

But lay non other name.....

Alisanir J Medecald.

ADVANCE INFORMATION FROM AMERICA

The G.C.S. Midwest(USA) Trade Fair will be held in Dayton. Ohio on May 12th, 13th and 14th 1988. The venue will be the Dayton Airport inn within the grounds of the Dayton International Airport. For those who arrive by air transportation is available from the airport lobby to the hotel.

The first day, May 12th, will be a trade fair for G.C.s.members only (and, presumably for those who are members of the British Golf Collectors Society.) In 1987 this attracted 45 tables and incorporated an educational session in the afternoon. On May 13th a bickory backer Lournament will be played at HOMESTEAD COLF CLUB, with a preference for suitable attire and clubs indicated. The final day will be an Open to The Public day. In 1987 over 100 GCS members and spouses arrended and the promise is that it should be an even bigger and better event in 1988. British members and those from the B.G.C.S. could well add the necessary touch of class' and make it a truly International affair.

For additional information and assistance contact ROSERT KUNTZ 235 East Helena Street DAYTON, OHIO, 45404.0.5.A.

And from the G.C.S. comes news that the 1988 ANNUAL MEETING will be held in St.Lauis.MO. 1 was at the meeting of 1981 and can vouch for this location, being home to some of the finest jazz bands and entertainers I have ever experienced. Date for this is September 29th, 30th and October 1st 1988. Garry and Lee Hauk are the organise's and they are at:1624 Trendley, St Charles, MO 67301. MSA.

On the question of usage and abusage of our language(see By Any Other Name.....) may I make a plea for those who sign their letters 'golfingly yours' to cease forthwith? This is in importation from America that we can very well do without! ***********

And on the question of behaviour, can any reader tell me when the babit of raking bunkers was first introduced? And, since a bunker is placed to peaish the less than accurate shot, why should they be raked anyway? By way of argument let me cite the thinking of those responsible for Pine Valley, that most classic of all courses, where a rake is never to be found. I had the pleasure of playing over this great course a year or two past with 'The Searchers' and did not tind the unraked acros impossible. Punishing they most certainly were, but not an Impossibility. that not to rake would be unfair, I subscribe And, lest there be howls of protest to the belief that the game isn't always meant to be fair anyway......

NEW ADDRESS FOR B. C. C. S.

Our new and only address for ALL correspondence is PO Box 843

East Sussex BN25 2HO

March 1988 Seventh Tee

My good friend Laurence Viney has written to me, telling of a discussion he had with Rayner Unwin (of the publishing company UNWIN & Co) when they met at a dinner given for the Society of Bookmen last year. He writes....
'But first let me tell you of a little more that ! have uncarthed about William Barentz, the Dutch Arctic explorer, whose journal recorded the playing of thet collent in 1596, when his ship was frozen in the northern ice. As a Dutchman he does not appear in the DNB, but he has a short mention in Chambers Bingraphical Distinuity, which is attached. (* See below)

That his journal should have survived undisturbed in the Arctic tre for 274 years is extraordinary; I know that Fuchs found Scott's Linned food intact in the Amtarctic after 45 years, but that a diary/journal, presumably written in 16th century this on primitive paper or panchment, should have lasted so clearly is almost unthinkable. I am writing to Rayner Unwin, who told me of this fascinating reference, to ask him for a little more background......

BELOW ARE FACSIMILES OF THE RELEVANT PAGES FROM BARENTZ JOURNALS, FIRST PUBLISHED BY THE HARLUYT SOCIETY FIRST SERIES NO LIV IN 1876 AND REPRINTED BY BURT FRANKLIN, PUBLISHER, NEW, YORK, U.S.A.

THE THREE

TOYAGES OF WILLIAM BARENTS

ARCTIC REGIONS

A304 1305 em 1506.

GERRIT DE VEER

----CHARLES ! BERR ben D. 184

Steam Except, beilt in Columnition. DECTERANT COOLEMANS BEYNEN,

BURT FRANKLIN, MORLISHER NEW YORK, NEW YORK

THE TATIONATION

makes, for that our wood was too troublesoms for my to

The Cof April it was large weather, the wind morth-east as I sees calme. They we tooks the highly of the sonne, and Could to discount almost the horses 19 degrees and 10. prigates, Six declination tring fours degrees and 40 miguess. which is degrees, who calleted from 30 degrees, the bight of the Poisson at 18 degrees.

The 1 of April it was faire closes weather, with a north-

The d of April A was faire cloors weatour, when a con-cast whol and very crime; then we made a staffs or close at least, therety to stratch our purpose, which we complet by many could to doe. all the meaner we could to doe.

That day we would like the strp, and pas out (through the Lewis | the reble that was made fast to the (boxes) author to the sed that of the stip chanced to be laces (or to drift) it might bold fact thereby

The 3 of April is was fould menther with a hard northmust wind, whomewish the use name mighting in agains and stid in great process one upon the nature, and then the ship lare feater then is did perform.

1 On April 2nd at mean acces, Norany Zemlyn, the sex a darkandron one of the general, with the pharmal languid (percented for soften term at 20 H at world per 19 H), as the languide, or distanting (1 for some heart distantiant, 10 Ar. f) in languing and many the pharmalist with male or april to white added the majority than the pharmalist with male or april to their added the majority between the relative part and the property of the pharmalist with the pharmalist per 10 H at the pharmalist of the pharmalist per 10 H at the was absenced.

The rest of an electromic in course alternally, the profits outcoming.
The rest of an electromic desired part deprices the name describe the event when or rate (forman, tasks, there is, rate any own which is a part is desired characterist and provide described the representation of the games, as therefore in little and a given that there has been been appropriately of the games of the propriate of the provided and the provided of the provided and the provided and (pro the blett state,

and then has water located at ... opener thes it was . which per vero grad comfort.
The 13 of May it was this example, has it amound hard wat a nu-th -- est) and

May fit was due their maather mite & mirch which Then i we fatch then and should with the wood, and any ware our above, made of raggles on our force, where with we had our industriants pleasure, and they furthered were we not our names much preserve, so they coronave to mind. At the term time as appear to W linam Bareaus ega no to moving the financiar about going from thance, which he promised he would doe for the following day J...
That I it of May it was faire meable with a west word, and it was agreed that all our mode abouted go out in exercise than had as much running, groups ! playing at roofs! and other namenature thereto we are their my the and those these nymber. Means time [William] Bereatt spake rate the measter and abound him what the company had said," who made him secretare that they should stay so longer than to the end of that moveth, and that if then the ship could not be lie that proporation should be made to goe away with the scotte

The 15 of May it was face weather with a west-wind; at which time the company were glad of the enswere that the margine had given, but they through the time too long, bereses ther were to lines much lime to make the bosts sail

Work.
 You or Papper suppressed the rough hase (lett) the page 146.

* Extract from CHAMBERS BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY

BARENTY, or Barents. William (died 1597) Dutch Navigator, was pilot to several Dutch expeditions in search of the Northeast passage, and fied off Novaya Zemlya. Captain Carlsen found his winter quarters undisturbed in 1871, after 274 years, and in 1875 part of his journal was discovered by another explorer. See Van Campen's Barents Relics (1577).

AFTER THE BALL by JOHN GARCIA

John Garcia prepared the following for his forthcoming book on Harold Hilton, which explains the references to Hilton, which might not have otherwise been made. He says he is too lazy to edit them out!

Riccid Hilton's period as a champion golfer was from 1892 to 1913. (If the seven major coampionable, he won, in the first four he played with the brild gurra perchantati, known at the gutty. In the last three, in Pall and 1913, he need a rubbers are call, based on the American Hackell ball, which was capable of being but varily greater distance. Coan the gutty. In 1902, the year of its introduction in the UK. the two finalists in the American Champion ship and the winner of the Open Lampion big all most a Hackell ball. During 1902, course records were being broken everywhere, sometimes by more than a handful of stroker. Why the k & A did not can too Haskell ball immediately is comething we shall have to consider, but before we do so, let us first look at the facts about the two kinds of ball.

Flainly their was a big difference between them. The gutty was quite a bit lighter than the first Haskells, and would float in water, which the first Haskell balls would not. • But Robert Harris, in his book " Sixty Years of Golf " (1953), says that both the gutty and the early Haskells and other rubber-cored balls, from 1902 of to about 1914, were much larger than the balls we use now, being from 1.72 to 1.75 inches in diameter!

Harris's figures are difficult to confirm, but the American John Stuart Kirtin, in his book "The furious History of the Golf Ball " (1965 7) says that all the factory made getties were " 1.70 inches or more in diameter ", which supports Harris's remarks. Until 1921 the rules were quite silent about the minimum size and maximum weight of golf balls. Strangely, at the time when the gutty was still in widespressions, there was much loss interest in size than in weight.

• To check low scoring by small heavy bails, the USCA introduced in Tancary 1931 a new rule that bails had to be no smaller than 1.68 inches in diameter and weigh his more than 1.55 ounces. A ball made to this specification would float in water. It was very appopular. In 1932, the Americans accepted 1.62 ounces as the minimum weight, while retaining 1.68 inches as the minimum diameter, and this has remained their standard ever since.

It is really astonishing that so many golf history books which refer to the guity fail to mention its very large size. This is even true of books written when the size of the little balls usually used in Britain was 1.62 inches in diameter, close to a huge tenth of an inch smaller. When you recall the fuss some of us made when we first played with the bigger American ball because it was 06 inches greater in diameter than our little ball, it is bard to imagine what it must have been like playing with an even bigger ball. Great credit is due to Robert Harris for drawing our attention to something which makes it easier to realise the enormous effect wind must have had on the big gutty ball especially when one hears in mini its lightness. for the gutty floated on water.

What is the difference in length between the solid gutta percha hall played with hickory shafted clubs, and the modern ball played with today's equipment. The accurate measure of this is shown by the scores on the seventeenth hole of the Gld Course at St Andrews, the famous "Road Hole", of the four leading players at the end of the 1900 Open, when everyone was using gutties. They were JR Taylor, Harry Vardon, James Braid and Jack White, and between them they played it sixteen times, scoring thirteen 6s and three 5s! Braid did the best with two of the three 5s, and Taylor had the other one, which he made by holing a 7 yard putt, in his final round of 75 which established a new course record. Vardon, almost universally reckaned to be the best player of the four, and White each had four 6s. The Golf Illustrated account of the Open from which these figures are taken made no comment on these scores, and I think we can take it that they raised no eyebrows.

Harris also describes how the Rules Committee of the R & A was forced to impose a new rule (he says in 1922, but it was in 1921) when a very small freak ball was introduced which could go for miles, and which really threatening the game. For the new rule the minimum diameter of 1.62 inches with a maximum weight of 1.62 ounces was chosen, making one suspect that the choice was essentially pretechnological. This rule lasted without change for ten years, but in 1931 in their rules the Americans raised the minimum diameter to 1.68 inches, in order to make scoring more difficult for the experts, while making the ball easier to hit for beginners and players of modest ability.

Tenth Tee March 1988

In 1900, even when the ground was dry and firm, only an exceptionally long drive would just enable a long hitter's second shot to reach the green. During the Open Championship of 1900, the ground was soft and, with the prevailing wind unbeloid as usual, it was probably impossible for even the longest hitters of the day to reach the seventeenth green in two shots. Then as now, an approach shot of any length to this green could easily finish in trouble, either on the road or in the pot bunker in front of the green. In 1900, even for the professionals, an approach shot was seidon the second shot, and was quite frequently the fourth. But some of those thirteen 6s of the four leaders in the Open of 1900 were probably due to mafety play.

In his Reminiscences, Hilton described his own strategy for playing the hole with the gutty, which involved directing the tee shot left of the shods, and staying far left with the second shot, so that his third would be played to the left of the pot bunker instead of trying to slip past it from the fairway on the right. Of course, Hilton's way of playing the hole (which followed from discussions with the old St Andrews professional Andra Kirkaldy) added many yards to its length, and his third shot was usually a full one played with a wooden club.

In 1911, one of the first issues of "The Golf Monthly", as it was then called, had a piece about the Road Hole, including a splendidly drawn scale map, with marks showing how Hilton actually reached the middle of the green with his second shot, using the prevailing wind to draw the ball into it. Needless to say, he was using the rubber-cored successor to the solid gutta percha ball, but even so it was considered a remarkable feat.

Today, unless the wind is blowing hard against them, the best players are slightly disgusted if they don't get a 4, and although 5s are not uncommon they represent a mistake. I do not for a moment imagine that their greater length has much to do with improved technique, even though there may have been some improvements.

It is hard to understand why in 1902 the R & A did not act immediately to ban the new "rubber filled " ball (as it was called in a series of articles in Golf Illustrated). Probably one reason was that there was a large group of first rate amateurs who did not think that it conferred much, if any, benefit on a player who used it. There was a good deal of debate about it at the time, in which this view was often expressed. It may even have been reinforced by the fact that both the finalists in the 1902 Amateur Championship used a Haskell ball. If only one finalist had used it and he had won, the argument might have gone the other way.

Eleventh Tee March 1988

The crucial thought which prevented really good golfers from being in any way alarmed was that the new ball, although it might help the weaker brethren more than it helped the strong, would not enable the third rate to oust the first rate. Among the professionals, JH Taylor had felt alarm when he had first tried a Haskell ball out in America in 1900, two years before it was introduced into the UK. On the first hole on which he used it, he drove the green some 240 yards away, disturbing some players who were putting so that he bad to hurry forward to apologise and explain. "Then and there "he wrote later, "I instantly realised that the gutty was doomed. "But nearly all the professionals at first disliked the Haskell, and were opposed to its toleration.

One of those who strongly disliked the introduction of the new ball was John Low, a prominent member of the R & A, and chairman of its Rules Committee. He termed it "an evil to the game "and said that one reason why so many good golfers affected indifference to the question was that they were slow to admit that the credit for their improved scoring belonged to the ball. Certainly one can imagine how a golfer who had just knocked a few strokes off the course record would be inclined to deny, perhaps even indignantly, that the ball he used had much if anything to do with it. At any rate, though there were immediate calls from a few for action to prevent the continued use of the rubber filled ball, as more played with it the proportion of golfers who liked it grew. And, of course, since there were no rules about the weight or size, let alone the composition, of balls, it would have required the introduction of a new rule to prevent its use from continuing.

A few weeks later, Alex Herd won the Open Championship at Hoylake playing with a Haskell ball, and within a few months so great was its popularity that the chance of banning it had gone.

Recently watching on television some professional golfers taking an iron off the tee at the 16th hole on the Old Course at Walton Heath, and recalling the use of wooden clubs by Dai Rees and Henry Cotton when I watched them play there in 1949, I wonder whether we are not encountering the same sort of problem today.

The Glorious Twelfth.

LETTER FROM AMERICA....

"Now is the winter of our discontent" for those of us in the frigid north and when the wind doth blow and the snow doth [all, we are confined to our hearth. Of course, those of us who are in the tropic climes of Florida, Arizona and Southern California continue to whale away and are the envy of those who remain stuck in the snowbanks,

There are some compensations. We can catch up on all those books we bought and did not have time to read and those who picked up rare treasures in old clubs can spend evening hours scraping and sanding and refinishing the old shafts and buffing those rusting heads.

It should be said that there are a few,old,crusty gentlemen who cannot understand why a guy would want to spend a few hours with a pot of varnish and a piece of sandpaper when he could be reading a book by Darwin or Hutchinson or, even, Peter Alliss but we suppose there is no method of accounting for taste.

Our particular winter — time project is to catalogue our library which may seem strange to some of you who know that the old boy has been collecting for thirty years. It is, however, a useful exercise and in the process, we find books that we added without prior reference and discover books missing that we are sure we had. It is proving to be a'mseful diversion' and it keeps us from the Pub — or that less elegant description, the Saloon.

We find it difficult to 'label' our Society these days as merely "The Colf Collectors Society" because we leel we cannot employ the prefix "The" when, obviously, there is a healthy and burgeoning British Colf Collectors Society. You will pardon us then, we hope, if in reporting our activities we simply label it 'G.C.S.'. We are pleased to report that many of the (G.C.S.) members from countries outside The Empire have stayed with us and we rejoice in their support.

Inder the intelligent direction of Charlie Yaws and Tom Kuhl, we are recovering from the 'hiccup' that disrupted the proceedings for a few months. We appreciate the affectionate humour they employ in describing themselves a 'Interim Secretary - Tronsurer' (YAWS) and 'Interim Mumbership Chairman' (KUHL). Further, they have an 'Interim Guiding Light' (WAKREN CLSON) and an 'Interim Sounding Board' (BOB CRIFFTH).

Current activities are centred on an election of a Board of Governors, the adoption of a Constitution and Bye — Laws and a registration of the nome of the Society and its emblem. Fred Smith, one of the Founding Members, has agreed to serve as 'Spokesperson' for the Society and is prepared to field all suggestions and/or questions offered by members.

An election is taking place as of this moment for twelve Directors to represent given areas of this country and the rest of the world — except the U.K.

We think each of these steps are constructive steps to achieve a more business - like and professional organisation - although there is one old disposed Dictator who mutters in his beer that "the old days were never like this". Thus far, fortunately for the old fellow's ego no one has dared to put in to writing: 'It's about time'........

The outcome of these elected will be ammunition for my June ramblings but some of you will remember the following who were nominated or are hold — overs from the original Board of Advisors: JCHN WHITTEMORE, FRANK ZADRA, JUDE POINTER, NORM HOLLANDER, ALLAN HILLES, LED KELLY, FARRELL SIDPLETT, FRED SMITH, ARCHIE BAIRD, FRANK HARDISON, JCHNNY (par shootin', highball drinkin' and low ball strikin') HENRY, WARREN CLSUN & BARRY WILLIAMSON.

If the G.C.S. laboured there for awhile,one of its strengths has been the enthusiasm of 'local' chapters or groups to hold meetings. Currently to our knowledge,Oropter No.1 (Maryland;Virginia,State of Columbia) are holding a meeting in corrly February and on March 12th the Tri - State Chapter(sometimes alluded to as "The Illustrious Norman J Hollander Chapter",will hold a meeting at GOLF HOUSE,Far Hills N.J. On the East Coost of Florida your Edutor's Springtime neighbour Fred Porter organises a trade show and golf tournament which ottracts all the right people, this usually at the end of March.At the other end of Florida(Tailahussee) a Hickory Hacker tournament is planned to take place at Duncdin on April 9th and 10th,Sid Matthew is organising. We are not as meticulous as we once were in keeping track of the new books and will offer a more complete report in Jhe. One which should perhaps be mentioned, for those of you with giant coffee tables, is AMERICA'S GREANIST OUR GURSES, (N.Y.Gallery Books $24.95). If it cannot be easily accompdated on the knee it is handsomely produced with glorious photographs and a sensible text describing, as the title would indicate, this countries finer courses,

Perhaps to your regret, we continue to urge our members to come to your beautiful shores and play on your lovely courses and links. We have received a number of enquiries about your 'BRITISH GADHERING', which appears to be most efficiently misterminded by BILL BEGH. You may expect some strange (and hopefully honest) faces. Sadly, this correspondent will not be among those - not those with the honest face, at least - but we do hope to invade in May when, we were once told by a Bard, the daffodils become a host. That is what we needa host. One final thought, which we hope your mixest Editor will not delete, is that we feel privileged to receive your delightful publication, 'Ihrough The Green'. (now why could not an un - named former Editor have thought of such a lovely title?) The most recent issue with the HILTON story by JOHN GARXIA, the articles by ALISTAIR MACCONALD and PETER BOWN and not to forget the poetry of FRED BATSON were most enjoyable. WE feel that our G.C.S. members are deprived in not knowing of the publication's delights,

.....nore on thirteenth toe......

Thirteenth Tee March 1988

It would not be proper to end without again noting our great pleasure in having so many of your members attend our most recent annual meeting. If we received with uncharacteristic necesses the rather exhaberant display of Nationalian engendered by your winning of the Ryder Cup, we are pleased that you have (As a Nation) enjoyed such a marvellous your in world - wide competition. We cannot help but note, being as masty as we are, that a tiny Welshman led the parade, but to have won the Ryder Cup, The Dumbili, The World Team, The Suntory and having an American elected Captain of The Royal & American Golf Club of Saint Andrews is certain testimony to the fact that Britannia rules the course. Of course.

COLF AT WALTON HEATH, SURREY. FRIDAY 17th JUNE 1988

A round of golf for London & Southern Counties members at this fine championship golf course.4.00.p.m. start followed by beer and sandwiches.No entry forms necessary but PLEASE Let Philip Truett or David White know if you plan to attend.

JULY 131h 1988

OCT SANSTAND SE

REGIONAL

SCOTTISH HICKORY HACKERS COLF CHAMPIONSHIP MOYAL FUNGESS COLF CLUB, DUDNIEGH Friday June 3rd 1988. The premier event North of the Rorder. An interesting and enjoyable competition with a true touch of history to bring you closer to the numberic spirit of the game.

FINIRY HOMES ARE ENCLOSED AND AN EARLY BUOKING IS SIMUNCLY RECOMMENDED.

WP Hyd-

The clabbouse overlooks the testing St Annes Old Links course.

The PREMIER event of the season. An 'Open'meeting at St Annes Old Links (entries limited to 40 golfers followed by a grand formal dinner at the CLIFTON ARMSTOTEL. Open to numbers & guests BUT places for this MIST be reserved and paid for prior to the event. Contact BILL BIRCH, 6 SQUARE ROAD,

WALSTEIN, TOLMORDEN, W. YORKS OLI 4 7SU

Te1; 070 - 681 - 6229.

And.....for the first lucky eighteen applicants, a workend of golf at MREADSALL PRIORY HOLFL COLF AND COUNTRY CLIB - MORLEY, Near DERBY, A three star country house with nine twin-bridded rooms reserved exclusively for the B.G.C.S. Colf on Friday, Saturday and Sunday for an inclusive tariff of £57.00 per person. Details from 10 Nex 843. SEnford, East. Sussex. RN25 240

Forteenth Tee

Auction News

The Phillips auction held in Charter on Landayant fullifled its reputation as the most professionally organised () events and offered for sale some 400 lots, with several items which had once been the property of John Henry Taylor. Prices were tirmer than many expected and the 2 1 c - 11 and doom' thinking that many had expressed (mainly attributed to the wear value of the once almighty deltar and the unknown state of play within the American based G.C.S.) came to nought. As examples, Beglies' book on JRT and signed by the great man himself made a staggering £170 and a signed dedicate copy of Cottons' 'This Game at Golf', normally a book which can be bought for a liver, made £140! If an always nonzed at the continuing high prices which are realised for Darwins works and gash at prices like £280 for Green Memorie and £280 for a dedicated copy of Colf between Two Wars and process and the contraction of the factor and £280 for a dedicated copy of 'Golf between Two Wars. (normally a Ten Pound Look without such the ription). Suprisingly the limited edition Large Paper versions of Badminion (ridiculcusty underestimated) were sald at £340 and £40 .nich by any standard were the 'steals' of the auction. I recall copies of this cornerstone work changing hands a year or so back for close on 11000 a copy! Ceraries and Silverware, including some of IHT's awards, made for firm bidding and brices exceeded estimates. Artwork though was a trifle linappointing with Michael Browns' weakening and a 'star' piece, inscribed as William Gladstone as a Boy' failed to reach its estimated £3000/£5000 with bidding ending an 1/800 and the piece was 'bought in'. A continuing interest in old golf balls does not suprise and the Gourlay making £2200 and a Marshall of Leith making £2500 raised only a very few eyebrows. Equality, there is a continued demand for good old slubs and prices were generally whove estimates, with a lovely Mid Spoon by McEwan making the highest price the day at £1300. It was good to see David Stirk amongst the bidders a pity, though, that he has not joined our new society, brotherhood) and masing to aitness Michael Hobbs waving to your souther across the room and ilmost having a lot knocked down to him by mistake! Increasingly common were the telephone bidders and a few present were to bemove the efficiency of British Telecom when the mysterious Mr Stein was running hot! The dinner teld at Barbahys prior to the auction was voted a fine though cramped success. and our taptain was in good form, delivering an anusing speech to the continuous flashing of comera bulbs from the amateur photographers. A pity the snaps I've received are of a quality which will not allow reproduction by our phototopy method. 中央企业社会会会会会 化电子会会

Auction Calendar

Sorbeby's Billingsburst March 31st. Sorbeby's Chester - July 11th. Phillips Chester - July 12th.

A FINE MID SPOON BY MCEWAN (Phyllips)

PulcENTURY ENGLISH SCHOOL William Gladstone as a Boy (Ph/11rps)

Letters-to the editor

A Forum for your views, news and opinions...

tic largraph ford notification posts for eleccontrad.

len for 1944

Pine of st. Tee in the Automa

"Is give estack. There are you chapt. We've not much four to space. There if som it he more thening golf. A scenning thought to bear. Tur out the vice prestree swings - he sourching for last habs. with the new the complete the nine before the decembe fails. The first a face, the lacend fire, me think a birdie two, The fourth Should be an early four, but I guest five will do. The jota . I played it well amough , is mught have been a par How I are his that five-iron that, a little bit too yer 141 sina , we are manimous, it is at really fair That a conformace, accept point, though be poortioned these to free a shot, his more or last, differry to the grate. lishen will the given committee are any first the stammed thing in , Now some the seroush. I'm turn t played the nearly perfect petal. I could mink how the ball contribut to and up in the stitch. these setter gas a move on , as the tight is foring fath It wasters teem a propor game, not having played the late, The right . More it no problem have, a faith langish wrive And then two wall placed iten that! In make on easy free, At last the nink . It | tocally a single shall per whee ; the matter that the light has good and differed to see . are all Array culture the pin is placed. So asky not play by eat. they served Il sounded well sample. Don't say you widn't heat. We rest the tee, strate through the gloom, and when he Any ball, citaring street specially, we nowhere to bricen. the magnet over in the hole . I have that it stronged I thus it must be worth a three - when makes me thought gar. Refer the cloud judick west well perhapt wall play once more Int tup of toe - the topic accuse. Sout though at hay spair four

A PLFA FOR ASSISTANCE, FROM:

Lee bassen

John L.B.GARCIA The Haycot Downsfield RUNFULD Surrey CUIO LJX Heat Darie.

Thank you has your size immarks on "The Scareman" also be by last wood. I might set as usual I leaved but over live hours but perag to but of a bighther that was non-house?

t as unclosing a photograph which last finality took of an at at farmerite below at Modarburgh, New International of the fit is on the putting green. It is a factor one than the full least protograph and one that I pacterize the last protograph and one that I pacterize the last manufacturers.

Hupe you had a good Children's but a 'gold fee lear' we usual I had a lot of aid crotism so for a time or teriand torriden a god, at Sports Borelik.

Had after hales with dissey has be took so to the steamers. I hard have have lively marked give so a strike at the lock haze and you give so that thirly group dy. — Sing leading so typical of the processing characters — But had you have their at the last had been need.

Threatmen and Kow Tens and a general time for ment objects to secure later been and foreign and I can apport that languages and there. Contracts to general to be a grand patter, be use greated for Magachiburgh Coll Club as the winter begins and appoint to affect this tens interest — and he's selly attract.

Supt you one Burid. sleare beay you know an aign oil eign boat wie on to pre suff your lady and to all my good tribute ju the Bull. 1.5.

....

George

Consign Colville.

(* a spin-sid shatesraph, which I as keveling for a later settling - U.v.

Dear David

to Import 160

6

10月月

them of the data indemned the my event not be to torain this earlier number and have be performed that you have in my most an arrival stylen, which in our the early being any completion, and about an outside to the familiary of Style St town gain this State Captain FY Witchen SH, who and been unable to that any quadral judgmention in the Civil arrangement which had been unable to the day quadral judgment in the

I pearstime through these concerned coveres the first half of tell. the shall of tell and the second tell and the second tell and tell and hitser Lebacan was scond in half-of that the hanges is the course and been done allow the models of hell "clustrated resistant flows flush (Will or scond) was trained to be paged to greatly I considerable because they make their face the house copy of the encertee to of follow collector can find tale, and mean of a photostat of the extreme (showld me extremely plates). Justice tourn expensely.

A review of new books, and those that may have slipped through the net, presented this month by Bob Grant.....

'I was very pleased to receive a copy of CORK COLF CLUB 1886 - 1985,a club history recently sent to me by the Captain of the club. The last time I met the Captain was some twenty years ago when he was practicing as a dentist in my home town. I recall did tive fillings on a Friday evening and then proceeded to beat me at golf the following morning. I still have the fillings but awart to retrieve my homour on the golf fourse. The book is a typical club bistory but is also bull of Irish National favour. Fred Daly, Joe Carr, the not so well remembered James Processual Christy O'Connor all feature within it. There is the usual photograph of Dr Alister Mackenzie who helped in some of the course redesigning work. (18, 30fr) or 18.00sterling from Grant Books.) A somewhat larger book is GOLF TOCKS AND DETOURS - Golfs greatest moments captured by Laurence Levy and Brian Morgan. One of those awkward, oblong books but extremely well illustrated, as one might expect from two sech masters of the camera. It concentrates or capturing the champions in both tain and joy one has chapters on ladies golf, addies, spectators and officed. . Not much in the way of text but truly great pictures. CE14.95 Sackwille Books) Another outsized book is GOLF IN SCOTLAND AND IRPLAND.A complete guide to courses, clubs accomposation and travel. Compiled by The Editors of Golf World it is the ideal Christmas book which tissed Christmas! Its 160 illustrated pages feature fine colour photographs which really make the book, Golf courses in both countries are grouped by area and it certainly gave me itchy feet to see the marvellous crurses at Domnegal, Killarny and Sligo Lesser known courses are also tentured. (E12.95 Sackville Books) DOJBEE EAGLE is a golfing moved by Keith Miles. It tells of a golf pro who, harrassed by his bank manager and ex-wife, takes refuge in California and gets involved in burder and maybem. Is it necessary to use foul language and sex scene: in a golf book? I didn't bother to finish Hill(19.95 Andre Doutch). Am interesting history is A HISTORY OF ROYAL ST.GEORGES GOLF COURSE, by B.J.W.Hill and Peter Hill. Featured are The OpenChampionships played there im luding the famous Bradshaw bole in the bottle incident. (Poslished privately by Peter Hill; Sheffield £5.00.card covers) A book which perhaps understandably has not featured prominently is THE PERSIMMON STORY by Fimero June, Then 48 page booklet traces the origin of a golf clab bead from the tree to the finished article. Nicely illustrated.:) has been privately printed for the author in Kentucky and may be obtained from Grant Books at £5.00. Modesty forbids me from writing greet deal about TOWARDS ONE HUNDRED YEARS-Edgbaston Golf Club 1896 -1985 by Peter Heath(a new member of our Society, Ed.) Published by Grant Books in a limited edition of 750 copies ,it is nicely bound and very well written. Edghaston Golf Club is close to the centre of Birmingham and yet, when playing the course you could well imagine you are a million siles from main habitation. The course is a true delight and the book a worthy one. (from the club,or Stant Books at (9.95) # Just about to be released in the HK is CADDIES by Gumby lordan and Don Wade. Gurby has been working on this book for some years now, collecting and annotating the ristory of the caddic, together with caddic stories. With a foreword from Herbert Warren Windit is illustrated with both colour and monochrone photos and drawings. The author has skillfully woven a picture of caddies and their homoar

In an unbrased way 1 can endorse all that Bob has written about this club history. The Secretary. Mejor B.R.Sullivan, was kind enough to send me a copy and I thoroughly enjoyed reading about this famous club, encircled by the speakl of a major city. I look forward to the chance of playing over the course and meeting the author, our new man', letter Heath. Ed.)

by asing contributions from the hest known names in golf. (112.95 Grant Books) and With a journal such as this I am sometimes rempted to take liberties. This I have done by 'lifting' the copy of twoold friend Lass Gowles (LDF DIGISTANA) to tell of the most important new sork of interest to the collector. I force at small all be contine a copy of this the ardefication bank collects

The post passion population of the scaller tible horasis being a control toutanet all as to post to the control as a calable as for each control as calable as for each control as calable as for each control as calable. counter the property condition for property and the property of the property o era e resilentar era e resilentar Data de per Table and the sprants per Table and the Service Following and he could be sufficient to the service for the service of the service for the service of the service for the

 k) the precisely instatis out there is Mundoch, on founder of the e Marchet, de founde or y fait Unitestant before, publish-tur Lindmark Sibliography. I University of 1065 themsion sometime less dam a Hessal El er and has been fire hat we me the subject over since. De they are ras reen the half will be for allowed by Dominian, an amorphism tool so for purposed their of an exposure of their days only natural that he are Mc. a slow a ger together. SLIT IS A LIGHT OF SHOPE 4 MA the Agree the new areas in his control to the control of the contr

I misked was tractices in a officer to assess completeness tracking down every source, he and altered, then going back on the same ground again and agail Nothing or this kind as ever for piete, but this is as close as me months are likely to get.

piere, ber this is as close as me mostals are likely to get.
The regular edition, clot bound, with slipedse, is pieced follow. A limited signed edition. 305 cupies, leather-leasand, will spass, is $225. The book can alter and form fastala Press. B. 70. Et accet. N.Y. 13760. Tel pilote (6.7) 261-3624.

Rea Committee.

- Ken Garn